During the recording, I mentioned the File API class and referred to the MDN documentation for the `<input type="file">` element. You can read more about it here: MDN Docs - <input type="file">.

Additionally, I demonstrated the `<pre>` HTML tag, which is useful for displaying preformatted text. You can find more details on this tag at W3Schools - <pre> Tag.

We also explored the `FileReader` API, specifically the `readAsDataURL` method, which allows you to convert an image to Base64 format. For more information, check out: MDN Docs - FileReader.readAsDataURL.

Finally, we reviewed the Base64-encoded image using the Base64 Guru website.
