Developer Tools Extensions

During the recording, the website StatCounter was shared to showcase the market share for browsers such as Chrome, Edge, Firefox, Opera, and Safari.

Additional Uses of StatCounter

StatCounter is also used for:

- Conducting market research on browser usage trends.
- Analyzing operating system market share.
- Tracking mobile device and desktop usage statistics.
- Understanding search engine popularity across regions.
- Monitoring screen resolution trends for responsive design considerations.
- Gaining insights into technology adoption and user behavior.

This data can help developers and businesses make informed decisions about platform support and optimization.